The results for the California state legislative races are still unofficial but we know that at least eight — one-third — of those seats will be won by non-incumbents because the current officeholders in Sacramento aren't seeking reelection.

Below is a snapshot of where the races stood as of 5:10 p.m. Wednesday, according to the California Secretary of State's office.

District 34: Incumbent Republican Assemblymember Tom Lackey has a solid lead over Democratic challenger Ricardo Ortega. The district includes parts of L.A., San Bernardino and Kern counties, including communities like Barstow, Palmdale, Lancaster and Needles. Lackey had 62.6%, while Ortega had 37.4%.

District 39: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Juan Carrillo was leading Republican challenger Paul Marsh. The winner will represent constituents in L.A. and San Bernardino counties, including residents in Victorville, Palmdale and Lancaster. Carrillo had 56.3%, while Marsh had 43.7%.

District 40: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Pilar Schiavo pulled ahead of Republican challenger Patrick Gipson, a former L.A. County sheriff's deputy. The winner will represent Santa Clarita Valley and northwestern San Fernando Valley. Schiavo had 50.9%% and Gipson had 49.1%.

District 41: Democrat John Harabedian was leading former Altadena Councilmember Michelle Del Rosario Martinez, a Republican. The district represents voters in Pasadena, Altadena, La Cañada Flintridge, Monrovia and Sierra Madre in L.A. County and Rancho Cucamonga, Wrightwood and San Antonio Heights in San Bernardino County. Harabedian had 58.6%, while Del Rosario Martinez had 41.4%.

District 42: Incumbent Assemblymember Jacqui Irwin, a Democrat, was leading Republican challenger Ted Nordblum. The winner will represent portions of Ventura and L.A. counties, including Simi Valley, Thousand Oaks, Calabasas and Pacific Palisades. Irwin had 53.6% to Nordblum's 46.4%.

District 43: San Fernando Mayor Celeste Rodriguez, a Democrat, had an early lead over San Fernando City Councilmember Victoria Garcia, a Republican. Assembly District 43 represents residents in Pacoima, Mission Hills, Sylmar, Arleta, Sun Valley, Panorama City, Lake View Terrace, Valley Glen, Van Nuys and the city of San Fernando. Rodriguez had 64.1% to Garcia's 35.9%.

District 44: Burbank Mayor Nick Schultz, a Democrat, was ahead of Republican construction manager Tony Rodriguez. The district includes eastern San Fernando Valley. Schultz had 64.7%, while Rodriguez had 35.3%.

District 46: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Jesse Gabriel had a strong lead over teacher Tracey Schroeder, a Republican. District 46 represents residents in western San Fernando Valley. Gabriel had 60.9%, while Schroeder had 39.1%.

District 48: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Blanca Rubio6, was ahead of Republican real estate business owner Dan Tran. The winner will represent a swath of the San Gabriel Valley including West Covina, Baldwin Park, Glendora, Covina, Azusa, Duarte and Monrovia. Rubio had 58.8% and Tran had 41.2%.

District 49: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Mike Fong had a lead over Republican attorney Long "David"

Liu. The candidates are vying to represent communities in the San Gabriel Valley including Alhambra, Arcadia, El Monte, Monterey Park, Rosemead, San Gabriel, San Marino, South Pasadena and Temple City. Fong had 59.6%, while Liu had 40.4%.

District 51: Incumbent Democratic Assemblymember Rick Chavez Zbur had a commanding lead over Republican entrepreneur Stephan Hohil. The winner will represent Hollywood, Franklin and Beachwood canyons, West Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Santa Monica. Zbur had 73.% and Hohil had 26.3%.

District 52: In a Democrat vs. Democrat race, Jessica Caloza pulled ahead of Franky Carrillo.
